Master's Program
"Data Science and Information Technologies"

Call for applications for the academic year 2023-2024

The Department of Informatics & Telecommunications of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, in collaboration with the "ATHENA" Research Center, and the Biomedical Research Foundation of the Academy of Athens, invites applications for admission to the MSc Program "Data Science and Information Technologies" (DSIT), offering two specializations:

1. Big Data and Artificial Intelligence
2. Bioinformatics – Biomedical Data Science

All coursework and lectures are in English. The goal of the program is to provide top-quality education in Informatics, Data Science, Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, Bioinformatics and Computational Biology. The two specializations have been designed according to international standards in order to meet the needs of the European academia and job market.

First degree (BSc) holders in Computer Science, Mathematics, Applied Math, Engineering, Biology, Medicine, and related subjects from Greek or foreign Universities are welcome to apply. Graduates of non-Greek institutions should consult the Hellenic NARIC organization (http://www.doatap.gr/en/) [1].

The program admits up to 20 students per specialization. The duration of studies is 3 academic semesters (90 ECTS), including one for the completion of an MSc Thesis (30 ECTS). The fees are € 900 / semester. For further information see our website http://dsit.di.uoa.gr/.
