To whom it may concern:

ParkZen (www.parkzenapp.com), is a smart parking technology startup company based in the United States that offers hardware-free parking guidance and automated parking payments by utilizing smart crowdsourcing and geofencing technology. ParkZen is a venture-backed company and has active users and customers in the United States.

ParkZen is building its next generation mobile app and web dashboard with new and enhanced features and wishes to offer a paid internship opportunity to 2-3 senior undergraduate or graduate students actively enrolled in a Computer Science Department at a Greek University. The desired qualifications of the successful internship applicants are the following:

- Flutter app development (dart)
- Back-end development in JavaScript, Typescript and node.js
- Python programming
- Machine Learning
- Good communication skills
- Preferred availability to work with our team between 8am-4pm US Central time (4pm-12am Greek time) to co-develop.

The successful undergraduate-level candidates will receive a monthly stipend of 500-1,000 while the successful graduate-level candidates 1,100-1,600 Euros per month; the exact rate will be determined based upon experience and qualifications.

Interested candidates should e-mail Dr. Manos Chatzopoulos (CEO, ParkZen) at: manos@parkzenapp.com and submit a brief resume as well as indicate if they fit the qualification criteria described above.

Sincerely,

Emmanouil Chatzopoulos
